

Master of Music, Educational Track

Are you a music teacher looking for more educational and artistic depth? Are you a musician with educational experience and ambition? If you have completed a Bachelor of Music in Education degree, this programme links up seamlessly.

This two-year personalised Master's degree programme will broaden your career prospects. It will give you the chance to develop your talent and specialisation, training you to become a highly versatile music educator of the highest level. Lessons will be based on your entry level, motivation and learning questions. In addition, you will have the benefit of study career guidance and research coaching. In any case, you are an independent, enterprising and musical personality.

You are not afraid of self-reflection and are aware of the social, cultural and international context of music education.

This bilingual educational track of the Master of Music programme comprises programme components from the Master of Music (classical/jazz) as well as advanced educational study. On graduation, you will be awarded the Master of Music degree certificate. The core of the programme and the research, however, are oriented towards educational and music-educational issues from professional practice.

For more information, please contact Marc Rutten, head of the department, by email. To apply for this track, click here.