

Become a Bachelor

In the Bachelor's programme Music in Education, we teach you to teach music to children, adolescents and adults. We do this by providing a practice-based learning environment and close collaboration between teaching staff, students, graduates and the professional field. Through specialisation options, research, free space and particularly teacher training, we create opportunities for you to develop your talent for education, music and innovation. This results in excellent job prospects in the Netherlands and the EU, in all levels of education. You can become a music teacher in primary or secondary education, certain types of higher professional education, special education, institutions for art and education, and social and support services. And you will. Many of our graduates find jobs within a few months after graduation.
